

SemanticBible is ...

an emerging exploration of new applications of markup and computational linguistic technology to the study of Scripture, with an emphasis on practical tools that encourage understanding and personal transformation.

Bible, New Testament, concordance, hyper-concordance, Gospel, Composite Gospel, New Testament Name, Blogos, bibleref an emerging exploration of new applications of markup and computational linguistic technology to the study of Scripture, with an emphasis on practical tools that encourage understanding and personal transformation.

Features:

- The New Testament Hyper-Concordance: an experiment in word-based navigation.
- The Composite Gospel Index: the four Gospel accounts of the life of Jesus in a unified XML-based reference.
- New Testament Names: a semantic knowledge base in OWL, classifying and describing properties for about 600 names from the New Testament.
- Blogos: a weblog with personal reflections on God's Word | our words | meaning, communication, & technology | following Jesus, the Word made flesh.

Everything here is freely available for you to use, download, and share (see License for additional details).

Recent Additions to SemanticBible

2011-03-25: Using the Bible Knowledgebase for Information Integration. Presented at BibleTech:2011.

2010-06-24: Using a Controlled Vocabulary for Managing a Digital Library Platform. Presented at SemanticTechnology 2010.

RDF meta-data for SemanticBible.

